The gavel sounds

Delegates gather . . . . the band strikes up . . . . banners are unfurled . . . . campaign buttons by the dozens are scattered about . . . . gavels bang for order . . . . people, people, people . . . . and the convention is underway.

Notebooks are dusted off . . . . officers are chosen . . . . student council convenes . . . . the student press begins to roll and to the blare of the band in the background NE athletes are again on the practice fields . . . . people, people, and more people . . . . another year at Northeast has begun.

At our own Northeast you will find us learning, studying and living in an atmosphere closely related to that of the convention, filled with hurried activity and swarming with busy students and faculty all working together to achieve a common goal . . . . the moulding of strong individuals and the building of a better country.

Patriotism . . . .

"I pledge allegiance to the flag . . ." Each morning the homeroom opening exercises include the call to colors and the flag salute.

Eckard Heintz, German exchange student, deposits his ballot on county government election day. While Ronnie Bucklin, who has just exercised his privilege of voting, leaves the voting booth, Shirley Foster and Ronald Griess prepare to exercise their x's.

In observance of Armistice day, the student council officers place a wreath on the front hall plaque honoring the Northeast students killed in World War II.

the purpose of the party

Shaking down the thunder from the sky are the Rockettes and Rocketeers at the NE vs LHS football games as they exemplify one phase of loyalty to Northeast.

Gathered for a brief chat about their offices, these lucky winners of the county government race relax after their luncheon at the Lincoln hotel.

"Voice of the Young Citizen" program is recorded by Bill Koenig, KFOR's Ken Wayman and Norman Schwenk.

"Three and a half years of imprisonment in a Japanese war camp made me realize how many wonderful things I had taken for granted," stated General William E. Brougher, retired army officer, in a talk to the Northeast student body.

The whistle blows, the drums roll and the Northeast band enters the annual Band Day parade.

A radiometer for measuring light receives careful examination from Ellis Jeffery, physics, algebra and chemistry instructor and William Grossoehme, biology and physiology teacher.

"And then you push this lever," says Franklin Kyker, metal trades instructor, as he demonstrates the Cornice brake to Glen Dorsey, Lloyd Schmadeke, and Watson Coleman. Mr. Dorsey is head of the diversified training department, while Mr. Schmadeke teaches vocational agriculture. Mr. Coleman is in charge of wood shop.

Like the rules committee which sets the rules of procedure that will guide and govern the convention . . .

Proudly viewing one of the new stoves are the home economics teachers Mrs. Lucena Hendrix and Mrs. Anita Bitner.

Plans for the annual county government day election and straw vote are being checked and double checked by Henry Willemsen, who teaches ninth grade social studies and American history, Miss Elizabeth Shaver, senior high American and world history instructor and Lawrence Mason, English and world history teacher.

Kenneth Wall, tenth grade hygiene and ninth grade science teacher, explains his ways of teaching the relationship between the world and the moon to James Lewis, junior high science instructor, and Willis Fleming, who teaches American and world history.

Mrs. Elizabeth Reeder, speech, dramatics and review English teacher, and Jack Mueller, who teaches debate, consumers mathematics and American history, review schedules for a forthcoming speech festival.

Big plans are being discussed by Northeast athletic coaches Bun Galloway, who is in charge of varsity football, track, gym, drivers' training and playroom supervision; Max Hester, who is line coach for varsity football, teaches drafting, gym and coaches reserve basketball, and Ed Johnson, varsity basketball coach, reserve football coach, teaches drafting and gym and also has playroom and auditorium supervision.

French maps and posters are the center of interest in the discussion between Mrs. Catherine Killeen, English and journalism, Miss Helen Dunlap, algebra, geometry and French, and Miss Jocy Carter, Latin and Spanish.

Ula Maher, Isabelle Smith, Anne Munson, senior high English teachers, and Mary Burnham, librarian, look amused as they browse through recent magazines before a teachers' meeting.

"Their transcription is getting more accurate every day," says Miss Audria Shumard, typing instructor, to Elmer Schick who teaches bookkeeping and shorthand.

Skimming through the daily bulletin are Lawrence Teply, eighth and ninth grade arithmetic teacher and assistant coach, and Robert James, who is in charge of visual aids, and acts as assistant football coach. He is also sophomore basketball coach and teaches drivers training and a class in math.

The Northeast faculty formulates and suggests the rules that will guide the student body . . .

Talking over some new ideas to put forth to their classes are junior high English and literature teachers, Mrs. Mary Moore, Miss Ann Gilham and Miss Elaine Carroll.

Junior high social studies teachers, Mrs. Lorna Furst, Robert L. Johnson and Louis Austin gather for a short discussion of the latest history instruction methods. Mr. Johnson also teaches geometry.

Mrs. Vietta Short, girls' gym and swimming instructor, and Mrs. Lucille Witt, school nurse, compare notes on the importance of hygiene in public school education.

First semester treasurer Nancy Tracy and secretary Sara Alexander

Second semester president Peggy Mathers and vice president Norma Converse

Second semester treasurer Eckard Heintz and secretary Sharon Albury

As the resolutions committee

"Get it while it's hot," is the slogan of these prospective business men, Jack Schaffer and Jerry Rittenberg, who are popping pop corn to be sold after school for some worthy organization.

Policies, practices and principles are important planks of the platform which is formulated by the resolutions committee at conventions. At Northeast the student council is responsible for good platforms of policies and principles. Beside helping determine school policies, the student council has many other duties. In October, several members attended the student council convention in Scottsbluff and returned to Northeast with many problems solved and new plans.

This year the council contributed generously to the band uniform fund. A popcorn machine which may be used by any organization to make money was purchased.

Throughout the year, students and faculty enjoyed worthwhile and entertaining assemblies and pep rallies which were planned by the student council.

". . . prest-o, change-o! The hankies are clean!" exclaims magician Dale Joy at a student council sponsored Rocket spotlight.

"High man on the totem pole!" That's Dean Crewdson, president of the senior class. Assisting him, Norvan Holverson, treasurer; Larry Sandall, vice president, and Glenda Foster, secretary, planned senior activities during second semester.

First semester senior class officers Darrell Stotts, treasurer; Ervin Pfeifer, secretary, and Jere Mitchell, vice president, listen to Keith Fager, president, as he outlines first semester class activities.

Leading the junior high to a successful and active half year as first semester officers are Judy Simmons, vice president; Jack Fager, president, and Gerry Keys, secretary.

Just entering room 208 to call junior high leadership to order are second semester officers, Allan McDowell, vice president; Ron Bucklin, president, and Lexy Lou Bell, secretary-treasurer.

decide school policies and activities

Effectively demonstrating leadership in school and extra-curricular activities, the 1952-53 junior high leadership class took part in Red Cross activities, spotlights, the selling of pop corn and helped to support the Northeast Polish war orphan, under the foster parents organization.

The members, elected by their respective home rooms, helped instill into the junior high, pep and initiative. Students worked together as a unit to make the year a successful one.

The Delegates

Just as the delegate is the big man at a convention, the student is the big man at Northeast. Here it is the student's responsibility to choose his leaders, to help set the school policies and to uphold the ideals of Northeast . . . .

Elder statesmen . . . who have set the policy

Seniors ... seniors ... that impressive, awe-inspiring title at last belongs to the 168 members of the 1953 graduating class.

They had the thrill of choosing from their own class the football, basketball and May queens, the King of Hearts — and the satisfaction of hearing their own baccalaureate sermon, of marching down the aisle in navy robes to "Pomp and Circumstance" and of finally receiving the symbol of six years of study, hard work, fun and fellowship — the high school graduation diploma.

For them, these years have been spent in striving to uphold the fine traditions for which Northeast is famous. For them, it means leaving behind familiar halls and classrooms, teachers and activities, to look ahead to the future with hope and assurance.

Experimenting with the jigsaw in woodshop are these two junior boys, Fred Holbert and Duane Watson.

This year's energetic juniors will again take the place of the out-going seniors. In their class of 231, they have many who will assume the responsibility of the school's leadership next year.

Led by the first and second semester's presidents, Bill Armstrong and Tom Pavey, the juniors have contributed much to Northeast's good convention spirit, good sportsmanship and scholarship.

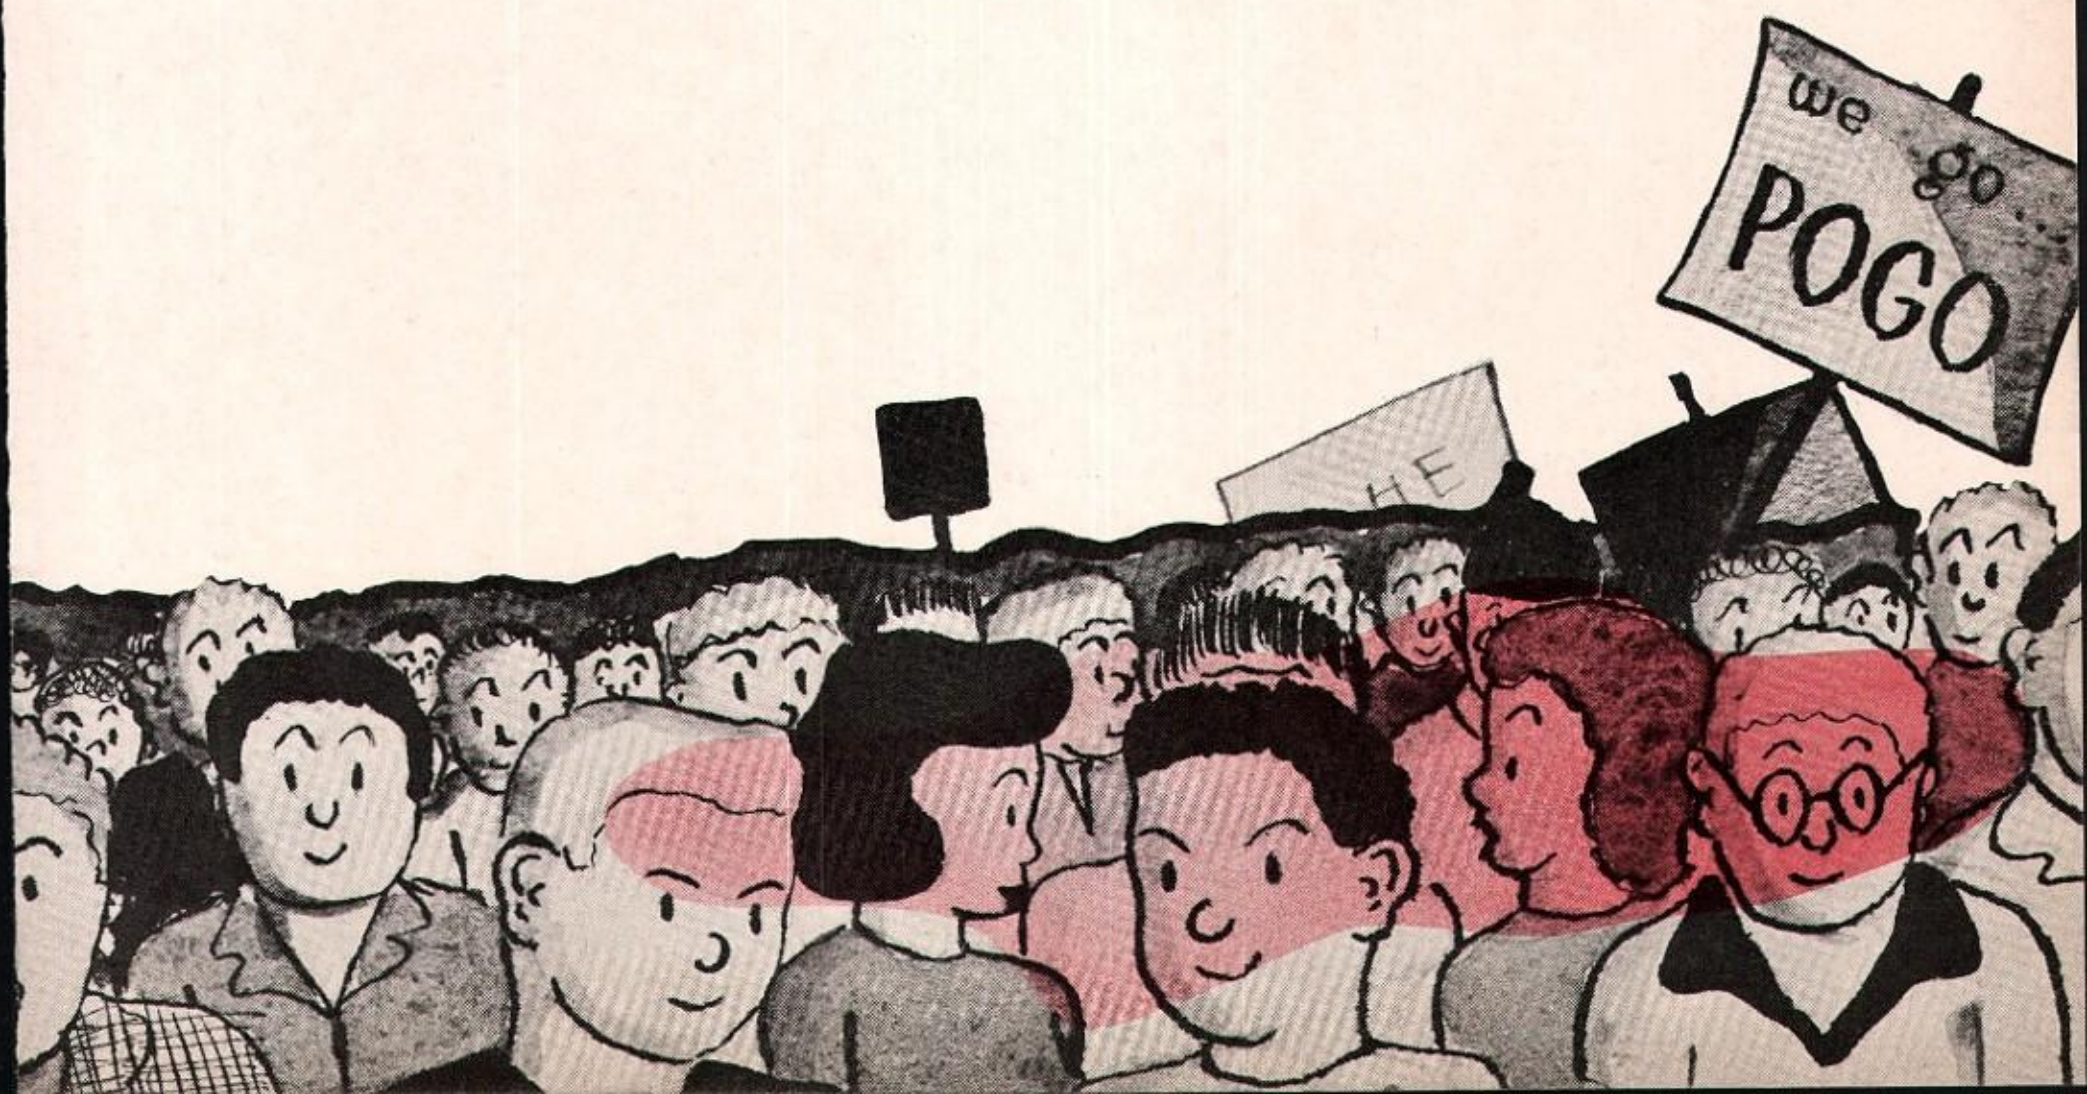
The Platform

The planks of the Northeast platform are studying and learning about, applying and upholding the four freedoms; freedom of the press, freedom of speech, freedom of religion and freedom to assemble . . . .



Freedom of speech

"All ah want to do is go back to New Yawk!" screams Depression in the dramatics' class play, "One Mad Night."

"Now look youse guys . . ." Giving the hot word on the N Club, Masque and Gavel skit are Bill Koenig and Norman Schwenk.

"Then you trip him." Coach Connie Coleman gives last minute instructions for the secret play to her Masque and Gavel team.

"Take it easy boys, you'll get your chance," says Julie Robson to Tom Blunn and Jack Ryan as they try a defensive play in the N club, Masque and Gavel skit.

Initiation into Masque and Gavel is a solemn affair. This January initiation ceremony was held following a banquet in the cafeteria.

Oh, for the life of a president! That's what first semester Masque and Gavel officers Norman Schwenk, recording secretary; Joyce Bare, corresponding secretary, and Virginia Hudson, vice president, think of president Bill Koenig as he bellows orders for his cabinet to follow.

Leading Masque and Gavel second semester are Vernon Hall, vice president; Norman Schwenk, president; Donna Kovarik, recording secretary, and corresponding secretary, Nancy Peters.

Speakers for the party

To recognize and promote significant student achievement in any area of speech is the object of Masque and Gavel, which is sponsored by Mrs. Elizabeth Reeder.

During the year Masque and Gavel sponsored two all-school plays, participated in the Voice of Democracy contest in which Norman Schwenk won the state first prize, presented a patriotic assembly and put on a skit for the Boys' Town game.

Twice a year banquets are held to initiate new members into the organization. Anyone having one semester of some form of speech and showing outstanding work in school or community speech activities is eligible to become a member.

Which one is crazy? This is the question in the mind of Ida Lee Johnson, as she separates Sonny Hill and Peg Shelton in a scene from "One Mad Night", a presentation of the dramatics classes.

Under layers of grease paint and with teeth chattering Northeast dramatists went on stage to present two plays filled with mystery and suspense. Under the direction of Mrs. Elizabeth Reeder, the dramatics class presented a Halloween thriller, "One Mad Night," while "Ten Little Indians" was chosen as the all-school play, to be presented a week later. Behind the scenes, the art department worked long hours to get the sets completed and properties collected, and shortly before curtain time the last tacks were pounded into the scenery while the cast members paced back and forth practicing lines and action.

Yes, this is show business at Northeast and "there's no business like show business."

"He's going to kiss her!" exclaims Minnitonka Smallflower. Ken and Honey lean forward in expectation, while Milo shows his disapproval of the romance between Daisy and Dr. Dorcey.

Honey stares dreamily off into space as Ken "sends" her with his latest "concerto."

"Who'd 'a thought this morning I'd be signing a will?" muses Daisy Durdle, taking pen in hand. Wingate, the lawyer, and Milo, owner of the will, look on with interest.

"They've done it again!" could be heard said of the production staff, Masque and Gavel, cast and directors after the rioting comedy "Lo and Behold" delighted audiences with its mischievous spooks and gay romance.

This spectre-filled comedy was the story of a complex love affair conducted in the library of a very distinguished author and Nobel prize winner's mansion and in the presence of four ghosts. The late owner of the house, when coming back to his abode as a spirit, finds to his dismay that three very interesting spirits have accompanied him.

It all combines to make a delightfully humorous ghost story which was added to the line-up of plays given by Northeast students with a great deal of pride.

As the clock chimes out midnight, the story ends and Milo (Bill Koenig), Ken (Jake Keim), Honey (Maizie Cox) and Minnie (Connie Coleman) chorus, "Lo and Behold!" while Daisy (Donna Kovarik) and Dorcey (Bob Bovey) smooch.

"Of course, if we discuss it from this angle . . ." ponders a beginning debate team, Carol Schierman and Sylvia Barnes.

"Say, did you hear about this one?" asks George Walcott of Vernon Hall as the two debaters exchange jokes.

"I'd suggest a new approach on that question," states Bob Bovey to his debate partner Keith Johnson as they discuss a recent tournament.

"I speak for Democracy." Norman Schwenk displays the style that won him first place in the regional debate contest.

Convention speakers

To learn original oratory, platform speaking, extemporaneous speaking, radio newscasting, discussion and the fundamentals of debate is the aim of the varsity debaters, members of the debate class, which was newly added this year to the Northeast curriculum.

Northeast's earnest and eloquent debaters work hard to prepare for such meetings as the Missouri Valley, Doane college, Augustana college, Omaha Central and Wesleyan tourneys.

Aided by the new class and the direction of Jack Mueller, the hard-working debate squads have continuously won top places against tough competition. Tying for first place in the Missouri Valley tournament, winning the tournament at Northeast and many firsts in individual competition are a few of the victories attributed the Northeast varsity debaters.

A strictly informal cabinet meeting is being held by the officers of the Northeast chapter of the National Forensic League. Bill Armstrong, secretary-treasurer; Dan Schlitt, vice president and Bill Koenig, president, are enjoying the meeting.

"Oh no, he has nothing to do with it," pleads Connie Coleman in her reading from "Arsenic and Old Lace", which won a superior rating and a scholarship for her at the Doane debate tournament.

debate the issues

An organization newly added to the list of Northeast activities is a Northeast branch of the National Forensic League.

The NFL is a national speech organization, the purpose of which is to promote more and better speech and social activities.

To become a member of the organization, the student must be an active debater who has participated in tournaments and scored at least twenty points, must have scholastic average putting him in the top one-third of his class, and have his petition for membership approved by the vote of the Lincoln Forensic League.

The organization provides a local and national tournament in which debaters participate. Winners earn awards of plaques, certificates and scholarships. Gold and silver keys may also be won through competition in the tournament.

Covering the convention

Busily learning the fine points of editing and issuing a newspaper is the beginning journalism class, generally known as the cubs.

Two editions of the Northeastern are put out by the cubs. The experience gained in issuing a paper prepares them for next year's duties as members of the Northeastern staff.

The writing of news stories, editorials, features and interviews; copyreading, proofreading and all the other things that must be known to publish a newspaper are taken up by the beginning journalism class.

The cubs also learn something of putting out an annual and the business aspect of newspaper work.

"Are you sure this copy will fit in here?' asks second semester editor Ruthe Rosenquist. Her associate, Sara Alexander seems confident it will. Jessie Stein, business manager, looks up from checking ads to see what the trouble is.

"Let's see. . ." mumbles beginning journalism editor Jack Rhoden while he chews thoughtfully on a pencil. Judy Ramey, associate editor, waits for 'the word' while Janet Woodcock ponders over the duties of business manager.

To be healthy, wholesome, helpful and to prosper from Christian living is the main purpose of the Northeast branch of Hi-Y. This organization, consisting of senior high boys, practices good sportsmanship in sports, speech and everyday living.

Under the able sponsorship of Alden King, Northeast's Hi-Y enjoyed a year of many worthwhile activities.

Holding meetings every week, the loyal members took part in swimming and basketball activities, planned and carried out dances and parties and have participated in the city basketball league for the past three years.

The Hi-Y, which is an affiliate of the YMCA, is headed by a president, vice president and secretary-treasurer elected each semester.

With thirty-three members, the newly-organized nurse's club got under way this year with the aim of acquainting all high school girls interested in any or all phases of nursing, with the different nursing schools and their requirements. Special outside speakers are featured at regular meetings.

Organized much as any other club, the White Caps have a constitution, dues and representation in student council. They are sponsored by the student nurses and the Medical Auxiliary.

Mrs. Lucille Witt is in charge of the Northeast group.

The club hopes to help some girl attend a nursing school by awarding a small scholarship. This project is still in the planning stage.

In the political swim

To help Northeast girls get into the "swim" of things by swimming and diving in good form is the purpose of the Penguin club.

Highlight of the first semester was the annual Penguin show, a Christmas pageant. Second semester the club sponsored junior and senior life saving for all junior and senior high school girls meeting certain requirements. This course and the club was under the sponsorship of Mrs. Vietta Short.

This year the Penguin members awarded a Penguin pin to senior girls meeting certain requirements. To underclassmen, a Penguin letter was presented.

Cheering the party to victory...

The Rockettes, enlarged this year to include 72 members, composed of 33 seniors, 20 juniors, 12 sophomores and honorary members, did an excellent job of cheering the football team on to a 7-2 season and the basketball team into the state tournaments.

Fun was had at work and play. Skits and traveling to out-of-town games highlighted the play side. Committee work on the football banquet and the Turnabout dance, the revision of the constitution and selling concessions at games made up the working part. Sponsoring the club were Mrs. Beryl Bowlin and Mrs. Catherine Killeen, who accompanied the girls on trips and gave advice on all projects undertaken.

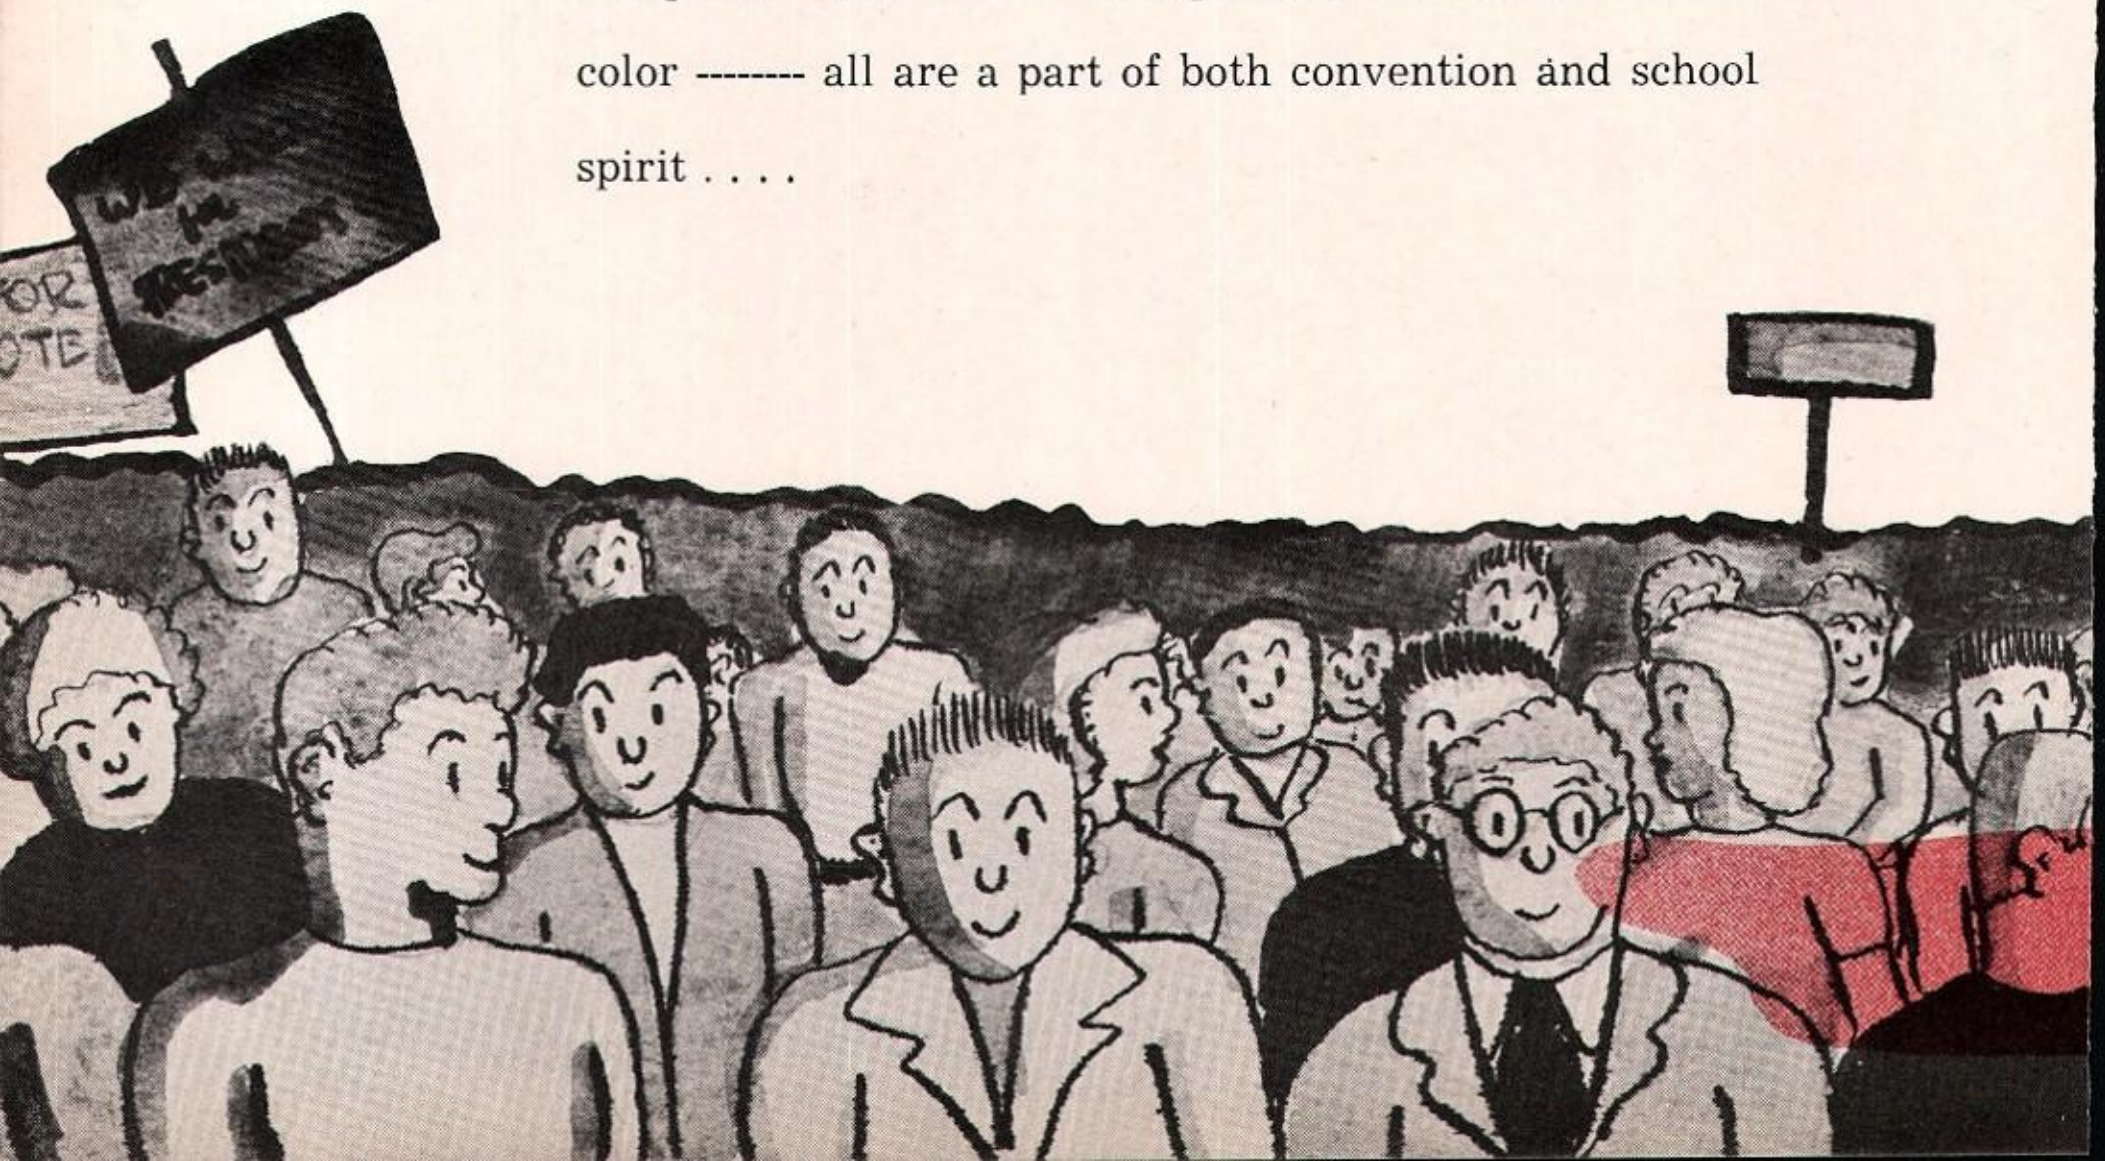
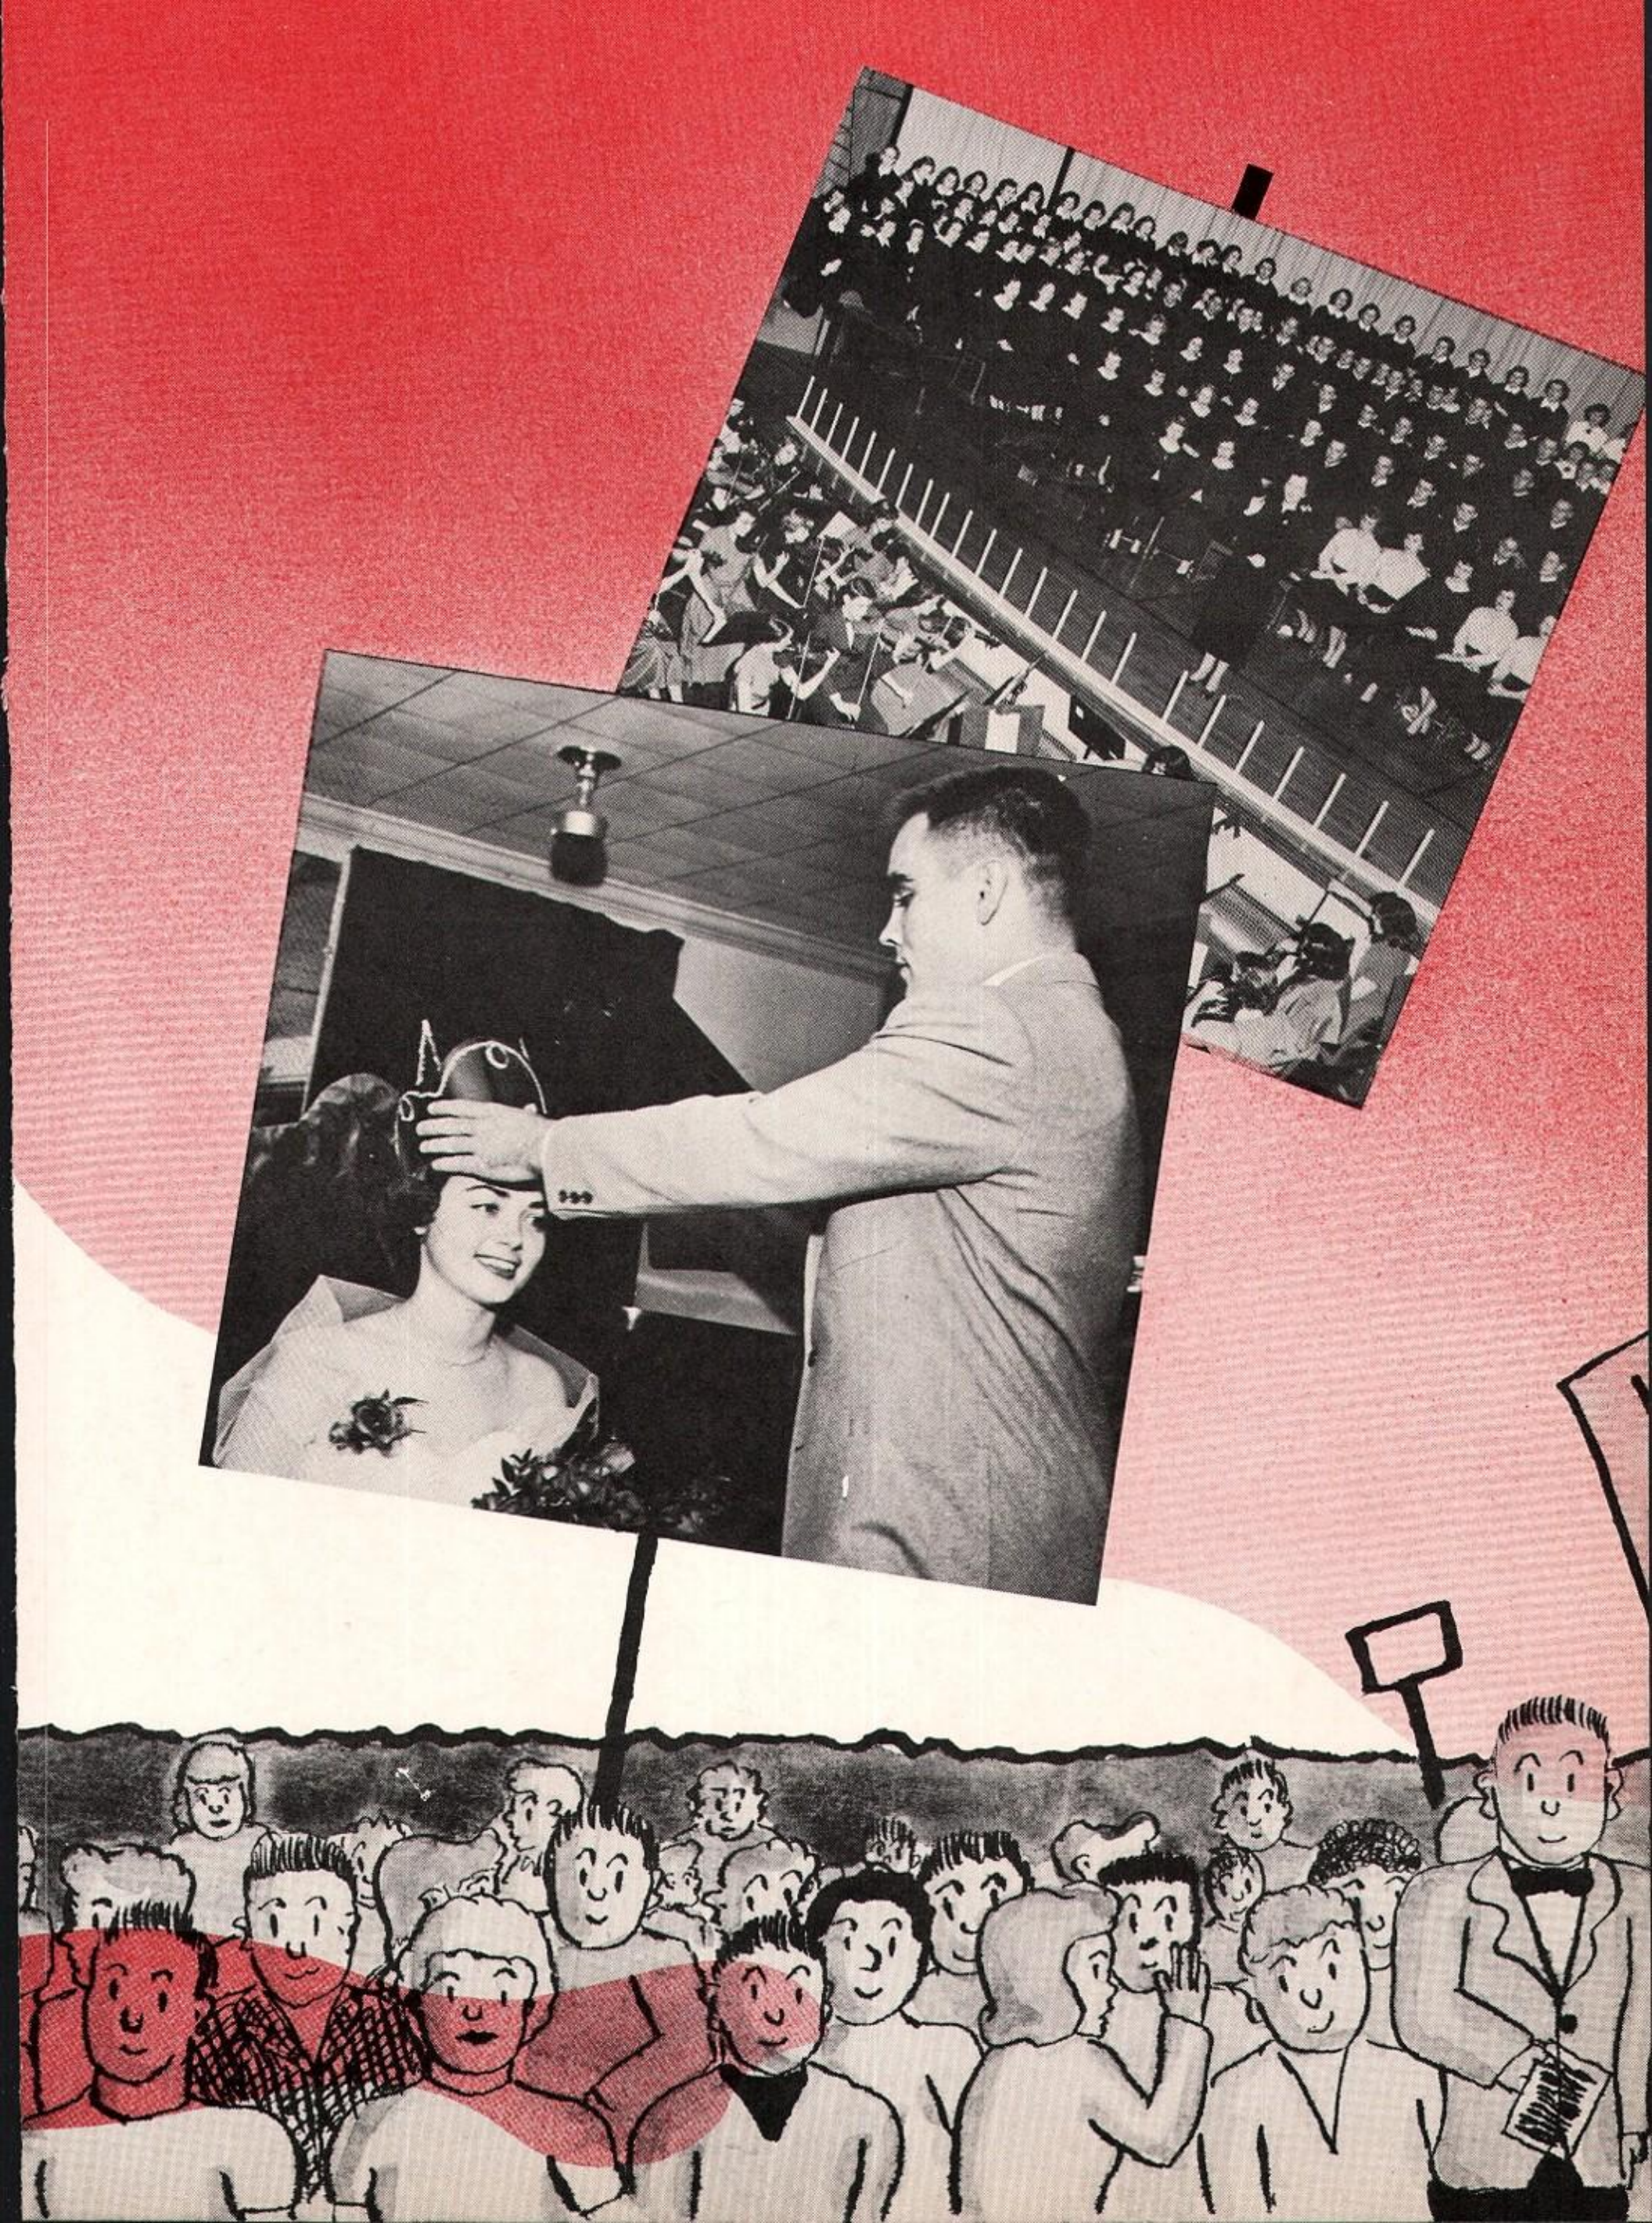
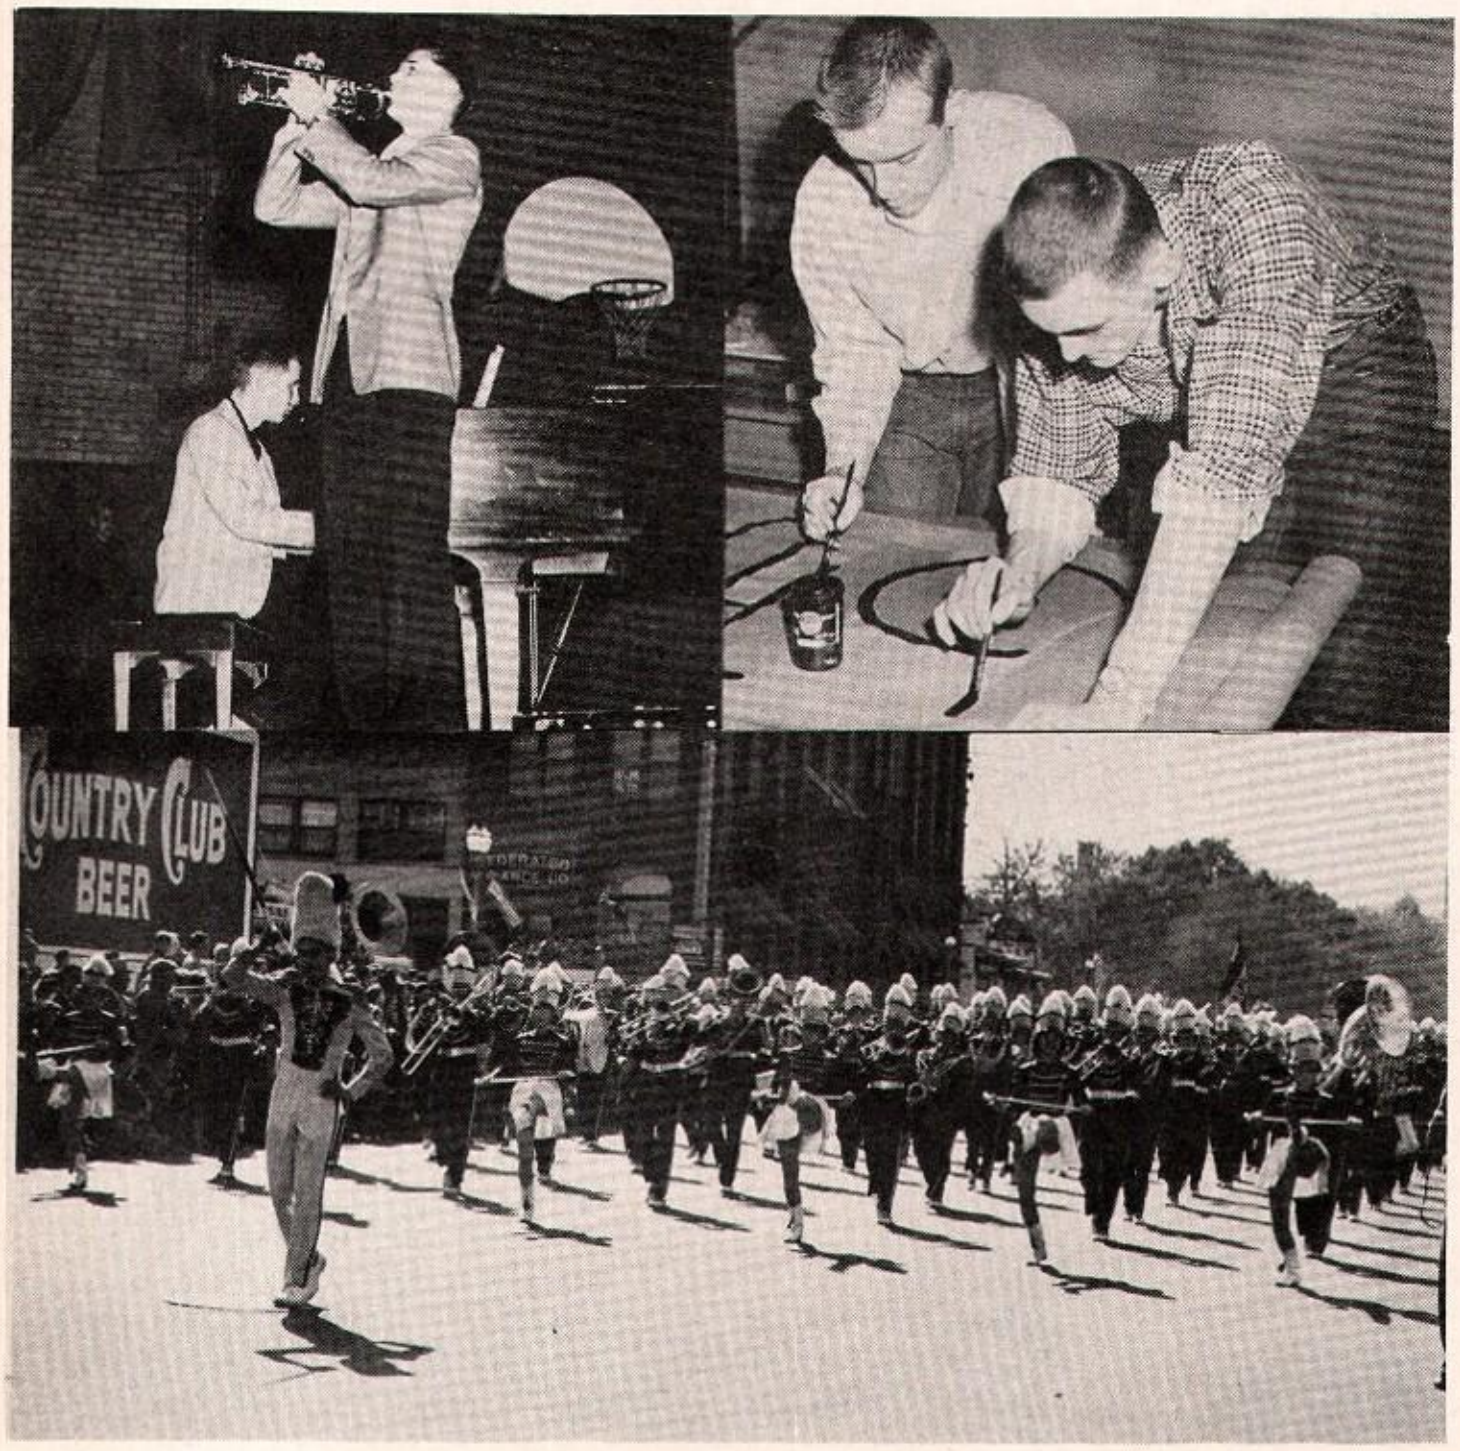
The Crowds and The Color

Bands, choruses, recreation, rallies, good sportsmanship, banquets, broadcasts, news reporters, the crowds and the color -------- all are a part of both convention and school spirit . . . .





"Let's live it up, it's not raining out here," shouts cheerleader Norma Converse as an out-door pep rally gets underway.



Marvin Frahm with his golden trumpet accompanied by Norm Schwenk participates in one of the Rocket spotlights.

It looks as if these two seniors boys, Bud Holloway and Bob Cook are hard at work getting ready for the Lincoln, Northeast basketball game.

One, two, three, kick . . . the nifty Northeast band marches in the Band day parade. (Ooops, Jack, don't fall in the man-hole.)

"Ohhh-- mah darlin," bellows George De Bord as Bill McKinney drums absently on, and Jim Haberlan strums his guitar in the Rocket Revue skit "High Moon."

"By the sea, by the sea," sing Judy Ramey, Janice Rodofson, Ruthe Rosenquist, Kathy Read and Margaret Rotert who compose the chorus line of the act "By the Sea in '93."

Strike up the band

And the band played on midst the flurry of excitement of campaigning, their own no less, in efforts to obtain their goal of $5,000 to finance new band uniforms. With a helping hand from Bethany, Havelock and University Place Lions clubs, donations from Northeast students and supporters and hard work by band members the goal was finally obtained.

Unsung heroes of the football and basketball season, the band again proved themselves worthy of recognition, both for their fine music and for their school spirit as every home game found them present with their lively music and ready to back the team all the way.

Platte to attend the state music clinic and giving vesper concerts were also part of their program.

One highlight of the musical school year was the Mid-East music festival with Northeast acting as host to 400 music students from Beatrice, Columbus, Fairbury and York. Convened at Northeast for the day, the program included two concerts of ensembles, soloists and a massed band performance, which was under the direction of guest conductor Robert Buggert from Wichita university.

With an eye to the future, prep band and instrumental music classes are not to be overlooked. As newcomers to the music field they study and practice in preparation of becoming the future members of Northeast's band and orchestra.

Additional color of an artistic nature is added to the Northeast convention by the orchestra and prep orchestra. David Fowler is the director of these groups and is assisted by Morris Collier, who gives individual instruction to string players.

This year was an active one for the senior orchestra which played at all school plays, at a vesper concert, at a patriotic assembly, at the board of education convention and at commencement. The spring concert was jointly presented by orchestra and band.

The seventh annual Mid-East music festival was held at Northeast this year. In addition to being hosts to the four Nebraska schools which participated in the festival, the Northeast orchestra and band both participated in the festival.

Individual orchestra members were also very busy. The chamber music society, which was organized this year, is composed of string players. The society entertained various organizations. A few of the orchestra musicians participated in the fine arts festival in the spring. Others attended the state music clinic in North Platte. Mr. Fowler was in charge of personel for this state clinic orchestra. Violinists accompanied the 1953 musicale, "Street of Dreams," which was presented by the choir.

Music letters were presented to eleven members. To earn a letter a student must have an average of 2 in orchestra and have been in orchestra for six semesters.

Prep orchestra is composed of string, woodwind and brass instruments, just as the orchestra is. In prep orchestra junior high school musicians gain valuable experience in playing with a group. This training prepares the students to fill vacancies in the senior orchestra. Prep orchestra performed at the open house for sixth graders who plan to attend Northeast next year.

Preparing to sing "On Wings of Song" is the girls' triple trio, composed of Carol Newell, Norma Converse, Dorothy Starkel, Shirley Grubb, Bobbie Wood, Carol Schiermann, Janice Rolofson and Kay Furman. Accompanist is Ruthe Rosenquist.

Filling the hall with music

Choir, composed of 95 members, had a successful and interesting year.

The members participated in many programs, including the Christmas program, patriotic assembly, radio program and Baccalaureate, and presented "Street of Dreams" to the student body. They also gave programs for Rotary club and Kiwanis club.

Boys' quartette was organized extra-curricularly again this year, working after school and at odd moments during the day. Carol Newell accompanied the group.

Highlighting their season were several club programs, the musical and singing at former classmate John Henderson's funeral.

Representing Northeast's vocal music department, the girls' triple trio has sung at numerous club meetings, business men's programs, school functions and on radio and television. The nine girls sang together all year with the exception of Kay Furman who took De Estye Graumann's place in January. They were accompanied by Ruthe Rosenquist.

"O, Come All Ye Faithful" sing vocal music department members in the candle light processional which began the annual Christmas program. Christmas music rings through the air as members of choir, girls' glee, mixed chorus and girls' triple trio blend their voices.

"Hark the Herald Angels Sing" could be heard during Christmas as the choir sang through the halls. Carol Reitfors, Jere Mitchell, Betty Jennings, Ron Livingston, Marlene Rosenberger, Dean Crewdson, Carol Newell and Clifford Becker carol down the stairs.

Vocal music members carried lighted candles down the aisle, singing "O Come, All Ye Faithful" to begin Northeast's annual Christmas Vespers, which was presented by choir, mixed chorus, girls' glee and girls' triple trio.

On March 26, 27 and 28 the music department presented an original musical fantasy, "Street of Dreams," which was planned by a committee of six choir, triple trio and boys' quartette members.

It took place on a city street, then a country road and finally on a fantastic street, as a disillusioned hobo sought to find his own private dream street . . . the "Street of Dreams."

With abstract scenery in the background, the choir prepares to sing the grand finale of the musicale, "Street of Dreams," which took the place of the annual operetta. The musicale was planned, organized and written by members of the choir and featured modern songs and dances.

Leading the choir during the year were Junior Thomas, secretary-treasurer first semester and vice president second semester; Keith Fager, secretary-treasurer second semester; Dean Crewdson, president first semester, and Erv Pfeifer, president second semester. Not pictured is Nancy Peters, vice president first semester.

"I'll See You In My Dreams" sing Jere Mitchell, Howard Thrapp, Carol Newell, Jerry DeHart and Jack Rhoden as the "Four Buds and a Bloom" harmonize Carol's own arrangement of that song.

Convention

Pausing on their way downstairs to girls' glee, are officers Loretta Loos, Lorraine Kelly, Joyce Johnston and Donna Lebsack. Joyce is first semester president and Donna is second semester president. Loretta was vice president both semesters and Lorraine served as second semester secretary-treasurer. First semester secretary-treasurer Margaret Rotert is not pictured.

Mixed chorus, a three year old organization, is growing in popularity, strength and quality each year. It helps give students with ability a chance to sing and perhaps to enter choir. Boys' voices, which are changing at this period, are given special attention by their ever-patient director, Mrs. Velma Snook. They sang at several school functions during the year.

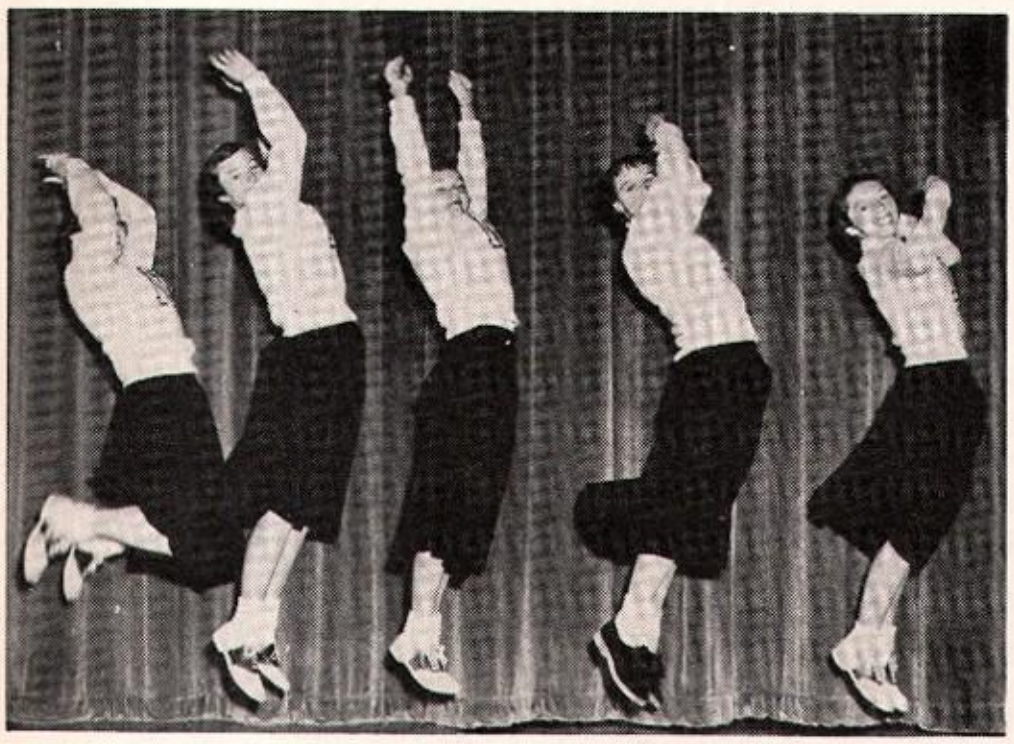
Right into a Tiger den goes halfback Ken Forbes as two Fremont linebackers paw him after a short gain. Another Tiger appropriately acting out the part closes in for the kill.



Plenty of pep and steam describes football cheerleaders Emily Forst, Bobbie Wood, Peggy Mathers, Norma Converse and Colleen Turner as they end a yell with a leap.

With practice beginning in late August, coaches Bun Galloway and Max Hester prepared to launch the "52" Rocketship from NE. This particular ship was to have more difficulty in accomplishing its mission than any previous one, for Northeast was to combat the strongest opposition in the school's history. In order to be ready it had to be put together properly, given test take-offs, and finally placed on the proving grounds.
Howard Thrapp was designated as the ship's pilot and as September 12 approached, the proving grounds were crowded with spectators. And the Northeast Rocketship did come home, and without a scar, as it out-maneuvered Beatrice 27—0.

Rockets take Holy Name

After hitting its first target, Northeast then tackled Omaha Holy Name. Besides leaving with the long end of a 47—7 score it broke the Omahans 39—0 game winning streak. Fremont was the next stopping point and after a little take-off trouble the Black and White charted a 7—0 score.
With three victories painted on the flying-machine, it prepared to take its fourth. Something happened and the jet engine throttled down to suffer a 33—0 defeat at the hands of Lincoln.

Rapid recovery made

Making a rapid recovery the team downed Hastings 20—0, but Omaha South, a new stop on the mission, gave the capital city boys more than they bargained for. In the closing seconds of the battle a Rocket touchdown pass was called back and time barred the Black and White from another attempt and probably the battle. The South high Packers squeezed by the air-sick Rocketmen 19—14.
The Mid-East conference title was on the next Rocket target. This time Fairbury was the victim by a 31—0 deluge of Rocket power. It was the fifth consecutive championship for Northeast.
It was now time for the NE gridders to please the homecoming crowd and knock another target from the mission. As it turned out, Omaha Benson was the crowd-pleaser by a 18—0 downpour of guided Rocket missiles.

Final mission run

This left only one more destination for the Rocket ship----Sioux City East, also a new stop. On a clear and chilly fall evening the Northeast ship descended upon the East high field. Using the experience and stamina of other missions, the Black and White took little time in disposing of this target and soon ascended with a 35—7 triumph. Thus the mission was completed, and the Northeast ship possessed seven hits and only two misses to register another successful season.

Strength for tomorrow

"ROCKETS," yell Margaret Marshall, Mary Lou Tangeman, Erwina Hutchinson, Holly Johnson, and Angie Holbert as they cheer for a reserve pep rally during football season.

There is a bright varsity football outlook for next year as future varsity members playing reserve ball racked up an impressive four win one loss record. Coaches Ed Johnson and Robert James molded their manpower into a hard driving offense off the "T" formation and a strong defense which held the opposing team to one touchdown a game.

Waverly dropped the juniors in their first game, but the Rocketmen bounced back to take Beatrice, Nebraska City, Adams and Fremont, in that order. They showed their best in the Adams game which ended in reserves' favor 27—13.

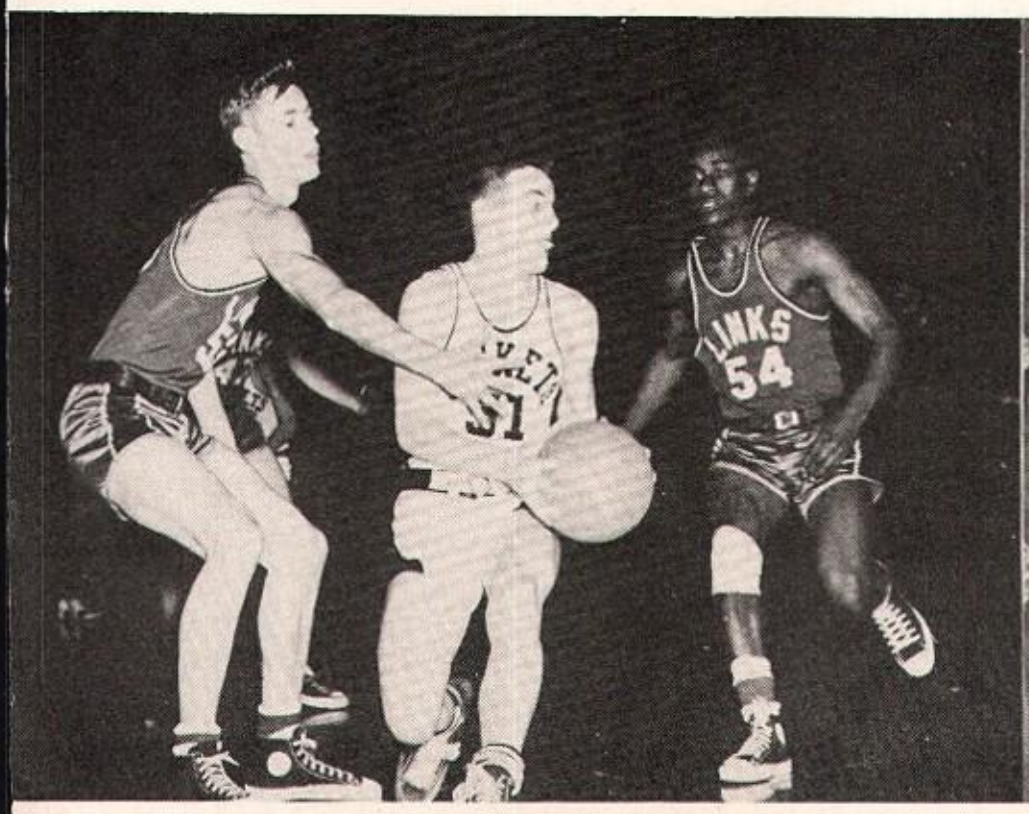
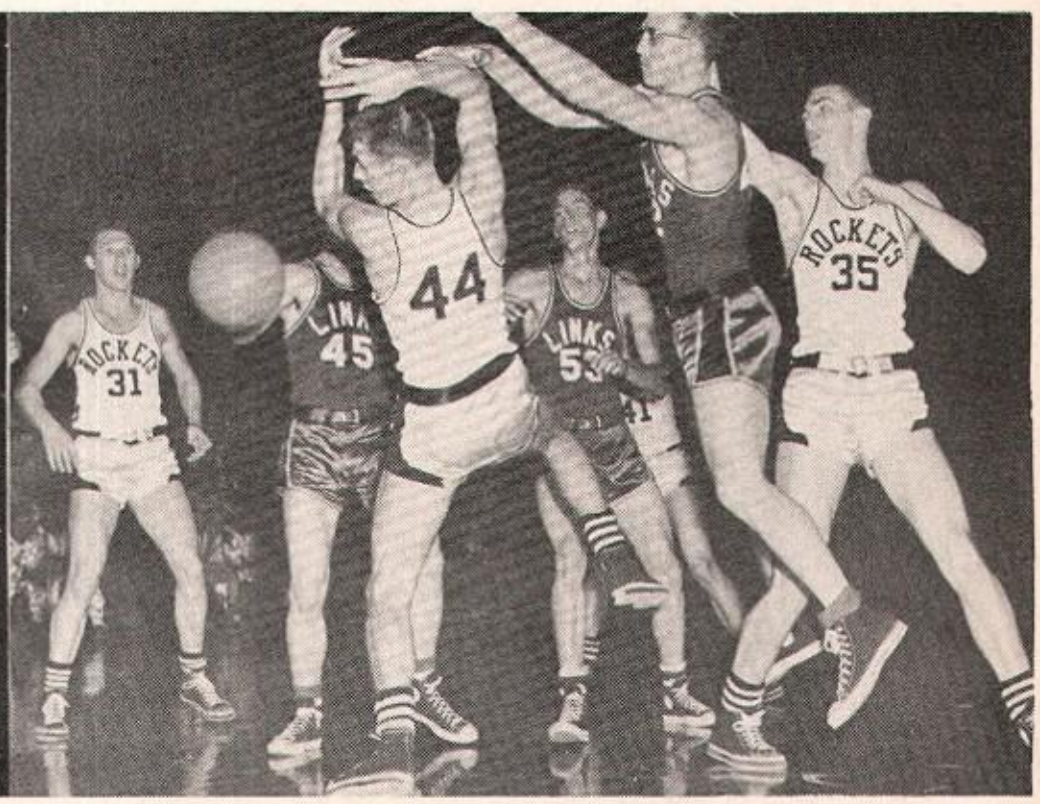
A helpless situation? No sir! Paul Leacox is in control of everything even if three Lincoln high players are converging on him.

"Get on that ball," yells Kenny Forbes to Dave Tullis, who is slightly outnumbered by Lincoln high defenders. Bob Cook stands helplessly by, waiting for the outcome of the scrap for possession.





Once again, another successful season has been chalked up by our Black and White cagers. With Coach Ed Johnson paving the way, the Rockets turned in a season record of 15 wins against 5 losses.

Losing an overtime thriller to Scottsbluff in the opening game 57-53, the Rocket machine proved too much for the North Platte Bulldogs by a 54-47 count.

With six returning lettermen leading the Rockets, they continued to smash each oncoming opponent on the regular schedule with the exception of two, Hastings and Boys Town. During this time the Rocketmen captured several honors. First, with a 58-57 win over the Creighton Prep Bluejays, they gained undisputed first place in the state ratings. Second, the city championship came back to Northeast with a 43-41 victory over our J street rivals, Lincoln high. And third, by rocking Fairbury 83-50, a new home-court scoring record was added to the books.

It was now time for our hoopsters to enter the annual Nebraska high school championship tournaments. In the district tournament at Falls City, the Rockets gained runner-up spot by dumping Nebraska City 50-42 but were unable to turn the tide the second night and lost to LHS 56-42.

Omaha Benson was a first round victim of the state tournament as the Bunnies hopped behind a score of 63-55.

In the semi-finals, North Platte once beaten by Northeast hustled to a 68-58 victory. Thus ended the Rocket hopes. However, center Bob Cook gained a berth on the All-tourney class A team, while teamate Kenny Forbes won a forward spot on the All-state class A team.

Three times Dave Tullis catches the rebound, finally tossing the ball for a basket after keeping it from North Platte center, Pittman, in a close, hard-fought semifinal game at the state tourney. In the same game Kenny Forbes comes up with another rebound as Bob Cook stands by ready to give a helping hand.

Coming cagers

Northeast's reserve squad attained valuable experience to build up next year's varsity. Max Hester took over the coaching reins and produced a quintet that finished up the season in fashion enough to take many a wrinkle out of the brow of varsity coach Ed Johnson regarding the 1953-54 campaign.

Valparaiso dealt the junior cagers a heavy blow by crushing them in the season opener, but NE bounced back with a convincing 48-26 triumph over Columbus, then fell again to a powerful Malcolm five and a Tiger team from Hastings in an overtime fray.

The Maxmen added Beatrice and Bennet to their growing list of conquests, then lost a heartbreaker to Lincoln after leading the entire way; a desparation shot in the last two seconds spelled defeat. The luckless hoopsters dumped Falls City's heralded second team and fell for the last time to Garland, before staging their clobbering climax.

In the final four encounters the Rockets proved that they had learned plenty of cage savvy by smacking York, Nebraska City, Fairbury and Boys Town in rapid succession, thus compiling an impressive nine and five record for the year.

"Get that ball!" yells Bill Bergstraesser as Dee Haas and Larry Hennings scrap with several Valparaiso defenders in the junior Rocket's initial game.

Speed and

Alley-oop--- and off into the wild blue yonder goes this shotput, hurled dramatically by Kenny Forbes.

Reserve track team

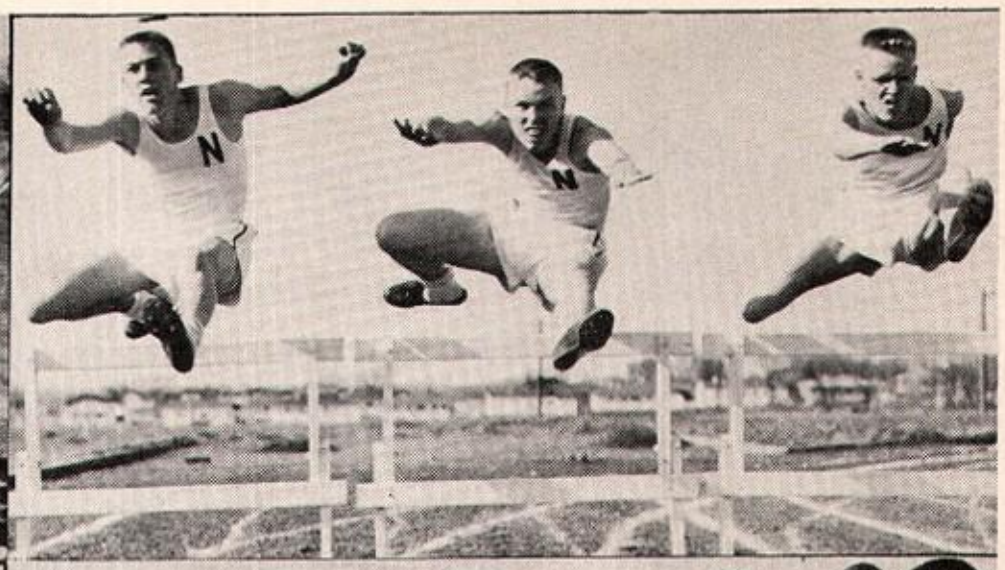
Ten returning lettermen and a batch of budding talent made up the 1953 track and field team under the direction of Coaches Galloway and Hester.

From the grunt and groan artists to the slim hipped speedsters, everyone of them helped Northeast complete one of its most impressive thinclad seasons. Honors were plentiful for the squad this year, as cindermen rolled in nearly every event.

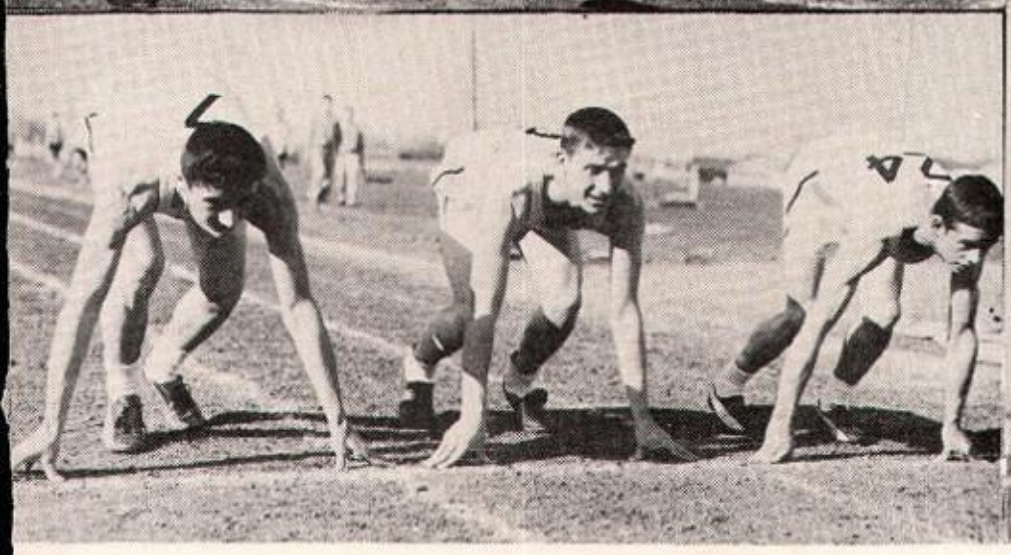
Blair, Ashland and College View, as usual provided the first competition. This is a meet which gives coaches a look at their prospects for the invitational meets and later the state meet. Beatrice was at Northeast April 10, for a dual which was considerably easy for the Rocket to win 74 - 49.

Stakes became higher now as the NE aggregation journeyed to the Nebraska City invitational for the annual carnival. Plagued with gloomy weather and a lack of conditions, the boys had to finish with a second place.

Running a sprint in the 220 are Dave Tullis, Kenny Nelson and Ron Steele.



It's not the enemy approaching, just the hurdle men Dick Beachell, Jim Haberlan and Tom Blunn of the '53 spring track team.



"Ready, set, go!" Dee Haas, Norv Holverson and Charlie Barnhill prepare to run a long distance relay.

Brushing up on his broad jumping during spring track practice is Kenny Forbes, as many interested spectators look on.

Cloudy skies hindered a triangular meet scheduled for April 17 between Seward, Fairbury and Northeast. A peak season performance was evident when the tracksters romped off with the Mid-east crown, gaining a place in almost every event. Although the meet was threatened by a storm, it was still executed with the field events held inside the University of Nebraska indoor track. Some of the best individual marks were established in this meet.

Another win in the Doane invitational and a win in the inaugural Lincoln high, Northeast dual meet sent them into the district meet with plenty of strength. Fourteen boys went to the state meet after taking an easy victory in the district. They were Charle Barnhill, Bill Bergastrasser, Ron Bradsby, Dick Beachell, Tom Blunn, Ken Forbes, Jim Haberlan, Dee Hass, Norv Holverson, Tom Pavey, Joe Price, Ken Nelson, Ron Steele and Dave Tullis. This group of boys placed fourth in the state track and field meet.

"He flies through the air with the greatest of ease,"--- Norv Holverson on the high jump.

Displaying his talents with the discus, is Larry Hennings as he "lets 'er go" for a long one.

With the watchful eyes of fellow track team members on him, Ron Steele successfully completes a broad jump.
